General Introduction

Government Inspections and International Trade

In today's world of trade, success is triggered by the ability to offer the right products at the right time complying with the exact requirements. With increasing globalization, the risk of products and materials not being delivered on time and/or lacking the quality agreed upon grows. At the same time business partners in different parts of the world have the common need for a guarantee that ordered components, materials and equipment align with given specifications.

As a result, governments implement Pre-Shipment Inspection programmes and PVoC (Pre-Export Verification of Conformity) programmes to ensure that imports comply with their national regulations. As a reliable conformity assessment body, TÜV Rheinland works as a gateway for global trade by helping governments fulfill national & International requirements and trades to navigate the complex regulatory requirements in global trade.
